Sockey Cinb Stewards Make a Concession and Ask for Improved Work-Ring Loses $150,000 on Lady Winifred Radtke's Queer Ride on King James.

From an authentic source it was learned yesterday that the Jockey Club stewards have otified Mars Cassidy that beginning to-day he can employ either the present flat footed method of starting the horses or the much talked about "walk up" system, with which Cassidy is said to have given much more satisthe standing break on the local racecourses. Furthermore it is said that Cassidy has been notified that if under these favorable conditions he fails to make good in future a new starter will be forthwith engaged to fill his place. As a result of this unexpected change of front on the part of the Jockey Club Cassidy will have a free hand at the post in future His friends for some time past have been clamoring for the adoption of the walk up sys tem on the ground that Cassidy's work with the barrier would be vastly improved. These friends have excused poor work in the past by Cassidy by stating that the flat footed method, not the starter, was to blame. Cassidy has not expressed himself one way or another, but in view of the howl for a change that has gone up in some quarters is evident that the Jocksy Club has decided to put the whole matter up to Cassidy Cassidy employs the walk up system the pub-lic will see the horses formed in a line about fifty yards from the barrier, after which they will move up slowly until the starter sends them away. It is argued that under this plan all the horses will have an equal chance and that it will be impossible for a horse to be left at the post. On the other hand, opponents of the walk up point to the fact that Cassidy tried it once before, and that it was a failure for the reason that fast breakers had an immense advantage while under headway, while slow breakers had practically no chance at all after the barrier was released. It remains to be seen, therefore, whether

Cassidy can show an improvement over his work several years ago when, because of general fault finding by the public, the Jockey Club stewards went back to the standing In justice to Cassidy it may be said that he has done his best in the past and that the Jockey Club, realizing this to be a fact, has decided to aid him in providing satisfactory starting for the benefit of horsemen and the public. But if the starting con-tinues to be defective it cannot be said that Cassidy has not had a square deal.

Before the first race was run yesterday would be an added starter in the Zephyr Stakes and that she could not lose. Some-time ago John E. Madden sold Lady Winired to Frederick Johnson for $6,000, so that it seemed rather strange when it was noted that M.dden also added his colt King James and the wise men refrained from backing the latter even to show. A fortune was wagered on Lady Winifred, on the other hand, and when the race was under way sharp eyed spectators were surprised to see Radtke riding King James under what appeared to be a stiff pull. In fact, a well known turf critic who saw the incident at a point near the field stand lost no time in making the bold statement to a steward of the Jockey Club that Radtke's performance deserved an investigation.

Madden said after the race that King James was recovering from bucked shins and that Radtke had received orders to take the colt when he saw he had no chance to win. But eyewitnesses were positive that Radtke had he ridden the colt out could have come within an ace of making it hot for the winner. As it was Live Wire would have beaten Lady Winifred in another jump or two, which would have spoiled one of the biggest killings of the season. It was estimated that the short of $150,000. Previous winners of the Blackburn, Bolero, Nomad, Lovelace, Dob-Siackburn, Boiero, Nollad, Lovelace, Dob-bins, Waltzer, Applegate, Divide, Varus, Sir Hubert, Killashandra, Commando, Disadvantage, Golden Maxim, Race King, Gawara, Gallavant and Red River.

Because of a hot tip on Dolly Spanker, who was backed down to 11 to 10 to win the Grass Selling Stakes, Frank Farrell did not bet much on his horse Grapple, who won this race with ease. Grapple opened at 5 to 2 scross the boards on Acrobat, while Don Hamilton was played from 50 to 1 down to 15. Remiss and Campaigner were also reed to 15 in the race, the former winners of which were Central Trust, the Kentuckian, Nones, Swiftmas, Leader, Sheriff Bell, Mabel Richardson and Logistilla.

R. F. Carman thought that his horse, W. H. Carey, was a sure winner of the handicap. at a mile and a quarter. So did other wise men, who proceeded to back Carey from 3 to 1 down to 8 to 5. His plunge caused Mr. Keene's Philander to go back from 7 to 10 to 13 to 10. Knapp, to the surprise of many who never knew that Carey could make pace and win, took the latter out for a hard duel with old Red Friar, a proceeding which undoubtedly best Carey to a standstill. Philander would probably have won anyway, as he was in rare form. He gave nine pounds by the scale to Carey, twenty-eight to Red Friar and seventeen to Bad News. Red Friar ran his best race of the season, which was probably due to the hot weather.

As is usually the case with Woodford Clay's porses. Nimbus, who ran a bangup race the other day at long odds and finished third to Notasulga and Cohort, was badly beaten yesterday when the public made him a strong avorite in the first race. But he could not have beaten Halket, one of the best twoyear-old colts in training, under any circumstances. There was a good play on Halket seems to have gone back.

The smart money went on Garrett in the steeplechase, as he was backed from 5 to 2 to 9 to 5. But Dick Shaw, receding to 3, upset the trick. The ring was a substantial winner in this race,
The defeat of both Cutter and Lady Karma

m the last race netted the books another were backed as if the race was a gift for them. Cloisteress was well tak n three ways, also Woodwitch, while Sailor Girl as backed liberally to show.

The dispute between R. F. Carman and George Boles over a $7,000 wager on Acrobat made by the former with the latter on Friday last was settled yesterday by mutual agree ment. The case did not reach the arbitration committee of the Mets.

A. J. Joyner paid the top price, $4,500, for a colt by Watercress-Sister Jeanie at the Haggin yearling sale yesterday. Joyner also bought a chestnut filly by Watercress-Victoria Cross for $3,450. S. C. Hildret Cross for $3,450. S. C. Hildreth secured a brown colt by Watercress-Vernette for $1,600. The others brought comparatively small prices.

Hundreds of spectators saw a fatality after the running of the steeplechase that they will not forget in a hurry. Paulaker, an they will not forget in a hurry. Paulaker, an aged brown gelding by Aloha—Pink H., after failing at one of the jumps, ran around the course aimlessly. Nobody tried to catch him and the spectators were looking on in amusement when suddenly the animal, as he reached a point opposite the paddock, tried to jump over the track rail. As he was in the act of clearing it his hind feet struck the timber and he turned in the air as he fell. He landed squarely on his back motionless. His neck had been broken and he had been instantly killed. Not long after-ward his body was dragged away by the track men.

Howard Oots was represented in the last race by a filly named Moselle, who had done some remarkably fast work at Belmont Park for this event. But when the books put up 3 to 1 there was no response from those tho generally know when to back the Oots Moselle will be ready for a killing soon and will bear watching. Notter rode a winner, a second and a third. Miller had four mounts and three of them

LADY WINIFRED WINS ZEPHYR. Heavily Backed, She Gets Home in a Hard

Frederick Johnson's Lady Winifred, an added starter, not only won the Zephyr Stakes for two-year-olds, five and a half furlongs, at Sheepshead Bay yesterday, but also en-abled her backers to take thousands of dollars from the bookmakers. From 3 to 1 she was backed down to 8 to 5, and leading all the way she lasted long enough to take the race by a head from the rapidly closing Live Wire, 15 to 1, who in turn beat Woodlane, 10 to 1, by three parts of a length. John E. Madden's King James, 8 to 1, another added starter, was ridden in such a manner by Radtke that the crowd howled in derision. Wave Crest, 4 to 1, was always outrun. The time was

Under a clever ride from Beckman Frank J. Farrell's Grapple, 3 to 1, ran over Acrobat, 7 to 1, at the head of the stretch and won the Grass Selling Stakes, at a mile and a sixteenth on the turf, by a length and a half, in 1:45 3-5. Acrobat had eight lengths over Jacquin, 12 to 1. Dolly Spanker, 11 to 10 favorite, could not raise a gallop and was last.

After making most of the pace in the first longs, Woodford Clay's Nimbus, 9 to 5 favorite, curled up and finished third. William Girst's Halket, 4 to 1, won this event like a good Halket, 4 to 1, won this event like a good colt, having two lengths over Jack Joyner's Hessian, 20 to 1, who closed with a rush, The time was 1:07 3-5.

The steeplechase, over the short course, was captured by Dlok Shaw, 3 to 1, who defeated T. Hitchoock, Jr.'s Garrett, 9 to 5 favorite, by a length in handy style. Sir Tristan, 40 to 1, dropped into third place. Realm, 5 to 1, fell, also Paulaker, who later on tried to jump over the rails and was instantly killed. The time was 4:10 2-5.

James R. Keene's Philander, in spite of the fact that he receded in the betting from 7 to 10 to 13 to 10, won the handicap at a mile and a quarter with ridiculous ease. Miller waited with him while Red Friar, 12 to 1, and W. H. Carey, backed down to 8 to 5, were making the pace for a mile or so, after which the Keene horse breezed to the front at the head of the stretch and standing Red Friar off beat the latter a length and a half in 208. Bad News, 12 to 1, was eight lengths back. W. H. Carey was made too much use of and stopped badly.

Cloisteress, 8 to 1, always consistent, made all the running in the last race, for mares, at six and a half furlongs, and won easily by iwo isengths in 1:19 4-5. Woodwitch, 8 to 1, ran into the place, three lengths in front of Sailor Girl, 20 to 1. Cutter, 12 to 5 favorite, got a queer looking ride from Radtke, who never made a move until it was apparently too late. Lady Karma, also heavily played at 16 to 5, was never a contender. Four favorites were beaten and the books enjoyed large profits on the day. A cool breeze from the ocean made the track a delightful place for 15,000 turf enthusiasts. The summaries:

ITHACANS LIKED FOR BIG VAR-SITY RACE ON THE HUDSON.

Coach Glendon Says Navy Crew Will Do Well in Case Water Is Smooth -A Hard Race to Pick, Is Consensus-Wisconsin Freshmen. Syracuse Four Well Considered.

POUGHEEERSIE, N. Y., June 25 .- "Cornell Syracuse and Pennsylvania have as fast erews as ever they have had and Wisconsin is better than usual," said Richard Glendon, coach of the Navy crews, this morning. "There are better crews here than ever before. Picking is very hard. If the water is smooth to-morrow for the varsity race and there is no head wind I believe that the Navy crew can win. If there is a head wind Cornell and Columbia on the inside courses will have an advantage. In fact the Navy might as well leave the shell in the boathouse. I believe that there is a difference of ten lengths between the outside and inside courses for the four miles in rough water." That is about the nearest thing to a prediction made by any rowing coach of the seven here regarding the race for varsity eight oared crews on the Hudson to-morrow. Coach Courtney has contented himself with saying, in view of the remarkable improvement made in his crew in the last week, that he is sure they will be among the leaders. There probably never has been a regatta on the Hudson in which it was so uncertain which college had the best crew. It did not take a wise man last year to say that Cornell had the race cinched. It takes a fool this year to dare even to surmise what will be the order across the finish line. Despite the fact that there are few persons who have the temerity to attempt to pick the order of the eights in to-morrow's big race, Cornell is a favorite in the betting that has been done. There is a very decided trend toward the Navy as a second choice.

for which the middies are favored perhaps a trifle more than Syracuse. The Syracuse crew is about even in popular favor with Wisconsin. Following these come Columbia, Pennsylvania and Georgetown in that order. It isn't that the followers of rowing do not believe that the men in the Navy crew are physically able to go the full four miles. It s a question of the way in which they are going to be content merely to hold on for three miles to the Cornell crew, which probably will be the pacemaker, the midshipmen have an odds on chance of beating the Ithacans. On even terms with the Cornell men as far along as that in the race the Navy crew should be ble to defeat the Ithacans, because they have the ability to raise the stroke away up, even as high as forty to the minute. However, if the Navy crew goes out from he start and rows in the punishing style which has been exhibited here in the practice work it is considered a grave question whether they will be so fit at the end of the race. It is pointed out, however, that by rowing the race from the start in that fashion they are likely to get a long lead and in that case will not need to spurt at all. Taken all in all, despite the smoothness of the Cornell crew, the Navy looks mighty good to those who have seen their shell in action. It is a dashing, snappy style, and the men are there to row it. If the Navy is beaten it will be a race royal, as Murray Russell, the Georgetown rowal, as Murray Russell, the Georgetown coach, says.

The experts simply cannot figure the Navy at all. Men experienced in rowing have been saying all along that the Navy crew does not row right and therefore cannot win. That, however, while correct in theory, is not accepted as the final word in the case. Ellis Ward, the Pennsylvania coach, says: "It takes eight good men to make a crew." If men were only all, the Navy has them. So has Cornell, too. It would be harder to find a better looking group than the Cornellians. While on the subject of men, the Wis onsin varsity eight are more uniform and trimmer in physique than any other crew.

wis onsin varsity eight are more uniform and trimmer in physique than any other crew.

What Cornell fears is that, although the crew is rowing together with great smoothness and is the best finished boat on the river, some of the men will be unable to go the distance well this year. Courtney took out of the four oared crew to make the varsity eight Bromley and Gavett. Gavett rowed in the varsity eight last year. He knows the four mile distance and has shown that he can stand it. Bromley is a two mile man or rather has been hitherto. In the eight also are Goodier and Gracy, who were in the four last year. Bayers at 2 is a brand new man in Cornell rowing. There are thus four men who are unknown quantities at the four mile distance. Can they do it well? The answering of that question will decide the race to-morrow it is believed.

Syracuse men have no hesitation in saying that their crew is better than that of last year. The men are pretty well put | up, although they are not as rugged looking as several other of the crews. Their stroke oar, Jim Ten Eyck, Jr., is the equal of any other man on the river as an oarsman and is better fitted to the crew he paces than any other oarsman. It is a hard thing to pick out any man in a crew and say that he is the best man, but young Jim comes very near being that in the Syracuse eight.

Just what the Wisconsin crew will do is hard to say. The Westerners think that their boat is very good, but the fact that the freshmen have been able to beat the varsity eight. The boat does not set up well and that is a grave fault. The men are there in the Wisconsin boat, but they do not make the same impression as the Cornell, Navy and Syracuse crews.

Where Columbia will be in the race is a problem. It is certain that the New Yorkers are much better than for several seasons before, but James Rice has in the boat three men of doubtful quality. The Mackenzies, Capt. Boyle, Cerussi and perhaps Snevilly are all right. Spaulding is rather light, while Yon Saltza, although heavy and strong, has power. The Pennsylvania crew, according to Coach The Pennsylvania crew, according to Coach Courtney, has made great improvement since it struck here. That, however, is all a question of comparison. The Quakers were very poor in quality when they came here, so that improvement is not necessarily a hopeful sign. The men in the Pennsylvania eight do not appear to be physically able to go a hard four miles, as hard as the race is likely to be. Walton and Hendrie are big but not necessarily strong enough to row well. Rogers and Braddock were in the freshman crew last year. Townsend, the manager, rows bow oar. He has had some four oared crew experience. The three real four mile men are Capt. Emig, Dean and Deering. The Pennsylvania crew is more or less weak in effect if not in appearance.

more or less weak in effect if not in appearance.

Georgetown's crew is counted to be too light to be likely to do much. There are four new men in the eight. Capt. Rice, Fitzgerald, Stuart and Foy rowed last year. Cronin and Woods were in the second crew for a while this year and Murray and Chapman are freshmen. It is hard to turn out a strong varsity crew from just enough men to make two eights, and no one could have done tetter than Coach Russell has done with limited material.

crew from just enough men to make two eights, and no one could have done better than Coach Russell has done with limited material.

The freshman race appears to be less uncertain. Wisconsin is liked very much for that. Cornell and Syracuse come along directly after. Pennsylvania and Columbia are not highly favored. In the four oared race Syracuse, Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania is the popular idea of the probable finish.

The betting this year is mostly between separate colleges. Cornell against the Navy. Wisconsin against Syracuse, Columbia against Pennsylvania and Georgetown are the popular divisions. There have been some bets that Cornell will not win all three races and a few that Pennsylvania will be last in all three. The Navy men are anxious to back their crey for second place, mostly, and they say that they fear Cornell most.

The first race, that for four oared crews, will be at 4 o'clock, two miles down stream, from the two mile mark to the finish. At 4:45 o'clock the freshmen eights will race over the same course. The varsity race is carded for 6 o'clock. John Hoyle says that the tide will serve for all three races and that it will be best for the varsity eights. In case of even a slight south wind against the ebb the water will be very rough.

The crews to-day did a little practice in taking racing starts, but other than that there was not much activity. The hotels filled up a litt e more and most of the arrivals were old oarsmen who were in previous college crews. Samuel H. Cook, graduate manager of athletics at Syracuse; E. T. Foote, commodore and stroke of the Cornell crew of 1906; Jerry Bogardus, of last year's Pennsylvania varsity, and Charles E. Sands, the old Columbia athlete, were among the day's arrivals.

NEW YORK (A. L.), 3:BOSTON (A. L.)-2.

BOSTON, June 25.—Boston gave New York a bad scare in the ninth inning to-day, but the steadiness of Hogg, with the bases full, saved the day for his team. New York took the lead in the third inning when Hoffman was hit and stole second. Keeler advanced him with a single and then pilfered the second bag himself. Elberfeld bringing both men home with a hard drive to centre field. The locals managed to score one in the sixth on Parent's single, an error by Elberfeld, Barrett's sacrifice and an out at first. In the seventh Conroy led off with a hit and went to second on Rickey's out, scoring on Hogg's single to centre. There was plenty of excitement in the last of the ninth, when Ferris and Criger led off with singles. Then Hogg hit Tannehill on the arm, filling the bases. Sullivan rolled one to Hogg and Ferris was out at the plate. Parent drove a bad bounder at Elberfeld, the umpire calling Sullivan safe at second, Criger scoring meantime. Elberfeld made such a growl over the decision that he was benched. Then Congaiton rolled another one to Hogg, and this time Tannehill was forced at the plate. Barrett then hit to Conroy at short, forcing Congalton at second. The score:

NEW YORKS UNABLE TO SCORE

BOSTON LINDAMAN'S PITCHING TOO MUCH FOR THEM.

Ritchey's Ringing Hits of Much Assistance to the Doyes—Breeklyns and Quakers Split Even - Home Runs Numerous at ashington Park—Reds Capture Two.

The New York Nationals were still in their slump yesterday, and were beaten for the second time in succession by the Bostons. The Philadelphias, by breaking even with the Brooklyns, gained a little ground on Mc-Graw's men. The Brooklyns won four straight from the Quakers, considerable of a feat. The Cincinnatis polished off the Pittsburgs a couple of times. The results:

with a sockdologer to far off left and bounded over the entire course without let of hindrance.

Artistic, earnest swatting picked off a couple of runs for the Bostons in the eighth. Burke bounced a single off Corcoran's underpinning. Ritchey rushed a two bagger to left, which put Burke on third base. With the New York infielders drawn in for a play at the plate Needham dropped a safe fly back of second base on which Burke and Ritchey tallied. The score:

BROOKLYN, 11: PHILADELPHIA (N. L.), 5-FIRST GAME.

Hard hitting spells being equally apportioned between the Brooklyns and Philadelphias yesterday, the spoils also were equally apportioned. The Brooklyns won the first game, the Phillies ran away with the second. The Brooklyns clouted Pittenger and Duggleby for keeps in the first and won hands down, Bell pitching well for the locals. In the second Sparks held the Brooklyns down all the time, while Henley was wild and easy to bump. The scores:

Mullins Steel Boats and Launches, YALE WINS SECOND GAME.

Batting Streak by the Blue Leaves Harvard Far Rehind.

New Haven, Conu., June 25.—In a loosely played game Yale defeated Harvard to-day. 14 to 6 before a record Yale commencement crowd of 13,000 persons. On the side lines in picturesque costumes the graduates, grouped in classes, sang and danced to music, growing more hilarious as the Yale boys drove out the winning hits.

The sons of Eli developed a terrific batting streak in the second inning. The score was 2 to 1 in their favor when it opened, and seven more runs were added. Hartford and Brennan were pounded unmercifully. The Crimson also used Slater, who was little better than his predecessors. Several times

Harvard had changes to turn the tide, but Meyer did not allow them to connect with the leather.

In the ninth the Crimson team developed a hitting streak which netted four runs. Simons made a hit, Slater followed with one to left field and Harvey was passed, filling the bases. Leonard scored Simons with hit, Briggs fanned, while Pounds, with miffield hit, scored Slater and Harvey. Dexterfield to centre and Leonard scored on the throw in. Pounds was thrown out stealing second.

throw in. Pounds was thrown out stealing second.

This ended the game and was the signal for a Yale demonstration never before equalled. Graduates of forty years danced with their younger fellow collegians, while the procession circled the half field and then marched singing and cheering to the campus.

Williams's hone run in the fourth inning scored Camp, and Church followed with a home run to left field. This set the Yale rooters wild. In fielding Harvard was weak, but to inefficient battery work can be ascribed the defeat. Dexter in left field put ap a star game. game.

Harvard and Yale will play the deciding third game at the Polo Grounds next Saturday. afternoon. Van Vleck will pitch for Yale, with Meyer to take his place if necessary. The
